Who is this course for?

This school is for anyone who has successfully completed a DTS.

About the course

The course will help lay some Biblical foundations for working with children and youth with a special focus on children in need.

Topics and skills covered will include:

- Reaching children in need
- Functional and dysfunctional families
- Family in ministry
- Ministering to abused children and youth
- Orphan and street children's ministry
- Programme and curriculum development
- Child development (stages of growth from in utero to age 18)
- Creative forms of evangelism
- Leading children and youth in prayer and worship
- Youth culture and Biblical Christian worldview as it relates to young people

This school will equip workers to reach, disciple and care for children and youth in their nation more effectively. You will be equipped with practical skills, knowledge and ideas for working with children and youth, especially children in need, as well as having opportunities for putting skills and teachings into practice.

You will also be encouraged to develop the vision you have for working with children and youth and reach your full potential.

How much will it cost?

The cost is to be confirmed, but will include food, accommodation and lectures. Outreach costs will be extra.
